2014

ANNUAL REPORT

CONNECTING PEOPLE WHO CARE WITH CAUSES THAT MATTER

MESSAGE TO THE COMMUNITY

Remember the tale of Johnny Appleseed, the pioneer hero who walked across America for 50 years, planting countless groves of apple trees, so that no man, woman, or child would ever go hungry?

Though the real-life story has stretched now into legend, there is something inspiring about that vision: a shared orchard, planted once and tended perpetually, that can nourish our community for generations to come.

The Outer Banks Community Foundation is our community's perennial garden — verdant, blooming, and lush, with all varieties of fruit trees, flowers, and luxuriant foliage. The plants in our garden are the charitable endowments that you sow — scholarship funds, grant-making funds, family funds, nonprofit endowments — each with its own name, its own purpose, its own legacy, and its own special harvest.

You plant the seeds when you make an endowment gift, and we tend the seedlings, now and into perpetuity. We fertilize, nurture, and grow them, through good weather and bad, and each harvest season, we work together to reap the scholarships and grants to give back to the Outer Banks.

Our community garden is thriving. As you will read in this annual report, in 2014 we started 12 new charitable funds and distributed over $560,000 in grants and scholarships. (Yes, the check in the photo was surpassed by year's end.) All this, while growing our endowment to $13 million in size!

That $13 million is not one organization's endowment; it is our community's endowment, and it will keep growing and sustaining our Outer Banks for generations to come.

Thanks to the donors on the following pages, 89 local students received life-changing college scholarships. Thanks to you, dozens of local nonprofits received charitable grants to support the arts, preserve history, feed and shelter those in need, cherish our environment, and bolster our community's health.

You are the Johnny and Janie Appleseeds of the Outer Banks. Anyone can plant a tree with the Outer Banks Community Foundation. We invite you to be our partner in giving; let us help you plant your legacy to benefit the Outer Banks — for good, for ever.

What can we grow in the sands of the Outer Banks? Turns out, a flourishing community.

A bequest from the late Stewart Couch created the R. Stewart Couch Hatteras Island Scholarship Fund in 2014. Combined with memorial funds raised by the Outer Banks Association of Realtors, it will be our largest single-year scholarship to date.

ABOUT THE COMMUNITY FOUNDATION

The Outer Banks Community Foundation is a public charity that connects people who care with causes that matter. Founded in 1982, the Community Foundation helps donors meet local charitable needs in Dare County and across the Outer Banks, from Corolla to Ocracoke, by targeting grants and scholarships toward our community's most pressing needs and promising opportunities.

The Community Foundation manages a collection of undesignated charitable funds, grant-making funds, nonprofit endowments, and scholarship funds, created by different donors at different times for different purposes. Donors may create funds during their lifetime or by bequest, for general charitable purposes or for a particular cause or organization that they specify. The Community Foundation provides tailored services to help individuals, families, businesses, and other groups pursue their charitable goals easily, effectively, and with maximum tax benefit.

Through its discretionary grants, the Community Foundation is the venture capitalist of our local charitable sector, supporting the Outer Banks's most exciting and most urgent charitable projects. The Community Foundation is a catalyst, helping the nonprofit sector evolve to take on new challenges and opportunities as they arise.

Through its scholarship programs, the Community Foundation has helped over 1,300 local students pursue their dream of a college education. The Community Foundation is the largest scholarship provider in our area, awarding both need-based and merit-based scholarships to the future leaders of our country.

The Community Foundation's perpetual endowments are a resource for today and tomorrow. With the Outer Banks Community Foundation, people who love the Outer Banks can give back to the community they love to help meet today's pressing needs, while building a source of support for future generations.

GRANT SPOTLIGHT

Although Hurricane Arthur largely spared much of the Outer Banks, several historic landmarks were hard hit by the storm, including the 1940 skipjack Wilma Lee in Ocracoke Harbor. The vessel suffered from a broken boom, separated stem, and damage to the handrail, davits, and mainsail. The Outer Banks Community Foundation was able to assist with a grant of $5,000 to help cover the damages. Local nonprofit Ocracoke Alive now has the Wilma Lee back in the harbor for educational programming on maritime history and culture. Photograph by Mitch Zeissler, Exploritorium Photo.

What's in a name? When a place is dubbed "Snake Pit" or "Man's Grave," you know there's a story there! But those stories can get lost over time without cultural stewardship. Through proceeds from the Community Fund and the Shirley & David Doran Fund, the Community Foundation provided an $11,600 grant to Saltwater Connections in 2014 for the Coastal Voices Oral History Program, specifically to digitize old interviews of Hatteras and Ocracoke elders for archival purposes – and free online access! Literacy is essential in today's economy," says Ginger Candelora of Mano al Hermano, "and family, home, and community are the true drivers of a child's education." A grant from the Community Foundation's Benevolent Fund is targeting all three "drivers" by supporting Mano's new Family Literacy Program. This innovative tutoring initiative works with Latino children – and their families – right in the home, on language skills and school work, all while encouraging parents to support and assist their children academically. By cultivating that culture of education, Mano is helping Latino families overcome cultural obstacles and participate even more in our shared community. Photograph courtesy of Mano al Hermano.

OBX Giving Circle Teaches Kids to Give Back

They've planted beach grass on Jockey's Ridge. They've walked dogs and mucked kennels at the SPCA. They've served meals at Ruthie's Kitchen, passed out water at the marathon, and helped kids learn to surf at Surfing for Autism.

They've donated over $8,500 to the charities of their choosing.

And most of all, they're learning about giving — charity, volunteerism, and the ethic of philanthropy.

In 2013 over 20 local families launched the OBX Giving for Good Giving Circle, and the circle is going strong, and growing

So, what is a giving circle? The concept is simple: A giving circle is a group of people who come together and pool donations to make high-impact grants to charities of their choosing. By combining their donations, giving circle members can leverage their contributions and be a part of larger, more impactful grant-making.

Giving circles are a hot trend, and groups of various sizes and shapes have formed across North Carolina and across the country. Some circles are for women, some for young professionals. Others develop out of a specific neighborhood, or a particular company, church, or club.

OBX Giving for Good has a spin of its own: it targets local families with school-age children, with a goal of getting the kids involved in giving — not just in volunteering, but in choosing the grants that the group awards. In addition to optional volunteer gigs, OBX Giving for Good meets twice a year to nominate and then vote for the charity(s) that will receive their grants. The kids are encouraged to vote and even pitch their favorite charities to the group.

Anyone is invited to join OBX Giving for Good! For more information, or to join this fun group of families, visit www.obcf.org or call 252.261.8839.

A Gift That Inspires Others

Dorothy Luedemann sent 10 young artists to college last year. She purchased violins for school kids, outfitted the Arts Council with equipment for its new art center, and paid for costumes and props for an Aesop's Fables production.

Mrs. Luedemann awarded over $23,000 in grants and scholarships in 2014 – 18 years after her death. And this year she's poised to do even more. So how's that work?

Because she willed it. Literally.

Dorothy Luedemann was a printmaker, painter, sculptress, and gardener who saw art in everyday life. "The arts include all forms, not just painting but also music, drama," she said to the Coastland Times in 1975. "Everything – from decorating a home to planting a lawn and listening to music – is all a part of the arts."

Originally from New York, Mrs. Luedemann and her husband, Charles, moved to the Outer Banks in the early 1970s. She opened an art studio and gallery, got active in garden clubs, hosted local art shows, and organized art workshops and activities for children.

At the end of her life, Mrs. Luedemann's wish was to help not only her family and friends, but her entire community. In her last will and testament, after several bequests to loved ones, she gave her house and art collection to the Outer Banks Community Foundation, to be sold and used to create two perpetual endowments. One was to support local art endeavors through nonprofit grants, and the other was to help talented local students pursue a college education in the arts.

Eighteen years after her passing, Mrs. Luedemann has done all that and more. So far she's awarded scholarships to 68 local art students – $168,000 to date. She helped save the Lost Colony after a devastating costume shop fire. She's supported literary magazines, purchased art supplies, restored musical instruments, and sponsored dozens of art performances – almost $200,000 in grants to date.

The best is yet to come. Because Mrs. Luedemann's bequest remains invested as endowment, only five percent of the fund balance is awarded in any given year. The principal and remaining earnings are reinvested, to allow for additional grants and scholarships each year in perpetuity. Mrs. Luedemann's $357,000 legacy gift has grown to $536,000, yet has already reaped over $368,000 in grants and scholarships.

Best of all, Mrs. Luedemann is inspiring others to pay it forward...

"Dance has always been a large part of my life, but for years I danced for myself and never really tried to reach others with my art." So wrote Mikum "Leah" Porter in 2003, a senior at Manteo High School, in application for a coveted Luedemann Scholarship award. "Yet during my sophomore year, I had an eye-opening experience that helped me realize how I can reach people with my knowledge and love of dance."

Leah went on to describe a dance workshop where she mentored a young girl with disabilities: "She had never really danced before, yet she never got frustrated or discouraged; she just let the experience move her. I know that day had an impact on this girl and I was so grateful to have been a part of it. My dance is no longer just about me, it is something I can communicate through. My art can reach others."

Leah won a Luedemann Scholarship that year, and to this day she still teaches dance. With a master's degree in dance science, Leah is working with East Carolina University on a possible new dance science curriculum.

While Leah lives in London, her mother, Linda Porter, still lives in Dare County, and Linda has just started a scholarship of her own – the Shear Genius Scholarship, which will give out its first award in 2015 to an art, cosmetology, or aesthetics student.

Linda's essay question: How do you see, experience, and create art in any form in your everyday life? The question could have been written by Mrs. Luedemann herself.

 Through her legacy gift, Dorothy Luedemann has brought art, in all its forms, to the Outer Banks, inspiring creativity – and generosity – for generations to come.
