2019

ANNUAL REPORT

Connecting people who care with causes that matter

Message to the Community

What a year it has been. As we write this message to our community, reflecting on Hurricane Dorian, grappling with the current uncertainties of the COVID-19 crisis, and observing the tumult of our country and world around us, it's astonishing to look at how far we have come on the Outer Banks.

Our community is known for its toughness through storms, its resilience after disaster, and its astounding generosity to neighbors. This has never been more true than now.

We are honored to share with you the following stories and photographs from 2019, a truly remarkable year for the Outer Banks, one marked by high water lines, hurricane-related heartbreak, heroic acts of voluntarism, off-the-charts generosity, and people working together to build a stronger, more durable community.

The flood waters and high winds of Hurricane Dorian struck the Outer Banks on September 6, and in the weeks and months that followed, we experienced an even greater flood of financial support and helping hands from people across our state, across our country, and around the globe, redefining our understanding of "community." More than 6,000 families and businesses contributed to our Disaster Relief Fund, and accordingly you'll see that our report has expanded by many pages to thank and acknowledge these generous folk.

But 2019 was more than just a hurricane year. The Community Foundation saw generosity throughout the year from all corners. Four new scholarship funds, created in 2019, will help students entering trade, vocational, medical, and hospitality programs. Other grant-making funds were established by generous donors to support our area's most pressing needs and promising opportunities. Each of these new endowments are "forever funds" that will be invested in perpetuity to make new grants, new scholarships, and more giving today and in the years to come.

In 2019 more than ever, our donors inspired us as they made great gifts, large and small, to support neighbors, endow beloved nonprofits, help rebuild after storms, and send students to achieve their educational dreams.

What are you passionate about? Where will you make your mark? Whose lives will you touch? We hope you, too, are inspired by this report, and we invite you to call us at the Outer Banks Community Foundation to help you plan your legacy of giving.

About the Community Foundation

The Outer Banks Community Foundation is a public charity that connects people who care with causes that matter. Founded in 1982, the Community Foundation helps donors meet local needs in Dare County and across the Outer Banks, from Corolla to Ocracoke, by targeting grants and scholarships toward our community's most pressing needs and promising opportunities.

The Community Foundation manages a collection of undesignated charitable funds, grant-making funds, scholarship funds, and endowments, created by different donors at different times for different purposes. Donors may create funds during their lifetimes or by bequest, for general charitable purposes or for a particular purpose that they specify. The Community Foundation provides tailored services to help individuals, families, businesses, and other groups pursue their charitable interests easily, effectively, and with maximum tax benefit.

Through our Community Enrichment grant program, the Community Foundation is the venture capitalist of our charitable sector, supporting the Outer Banks' most exciting and most urgent charitable projects. The Community Foundation is a catalyst, helping the nonprofit sector evolve to take on new challenges and opportunities as they arise. The Community Foundation also manages designated endowments on behalf of nonprofits, providing these groups with sustainable, easy funds for whatever their needs might be.

Fighting food insecurity is year-round work for the Beach Food Pantry. After Hurricane Dorian, this nonprofit, which normally serves Dare County, expanded their scope to Ocracoke, to provide fresh fruit and vegetables to disaster victims, with support from a Community Foundation Rapid Response Grant. In 2019, Beach Food Pantry provided more than 195,000 meals and helped 3,652 Dare and Ocracoke residents. Their volunteers logged more than 6,500 hours last year. (Photo courtesy of Beach Food Pantry.)

Through our Scholarship Program, the Community Foundation has helped more than 1,550 local students pursue their dreams of a college education. The Community Foundation is the largest and most diverse scholarship provider in our area, awarding both need-based and merit-based scholarships to the future leaders of our country.

The Community Foundation's perpetual endowments are a resource for today and tomorrow. With the Outer Banks Community Foundation, people who love the Outer Banks can give back to the community they love to help meet today's pressing needs, while building a source of support for future generations.

New Fund Spotlight

William Walter Reams Memorial Fund

The William Walter Reams Memorial Fund was created by Lynn Reams in 2019 as a way to honor her late husband, and to give back to the people she now calls “neighbors” in the place she’s called “home” since 2018. The fund is unrestricted to support the Outer Banks’ most urgent needs and promising opportunities. The Reams Fund will be used each year to help nonprofits through the Community Foundation’s Community Enrichment Grant Program, awarding annual competitive grants to the charities making the biggest difference in the Outer Banks.

Karen Phillips Memorial Scholarship Fund

Karen Phillips was a source of inspiration to her husband, Roy, all through their sixty years of marriage. It was Karen who got Roy interested in volunteering in Manteo Elementary School’s reading program, and once he saw the great need, and realized how impactful volunteer involvement could be in young lives, he was inspired to create the Karen Phillips Memorial Scholarship Fund in her honor. The Karen Phillips Scholarship will be awarded by our partners at Mount Olivet United Methodist Church to Dare County students who plan to pursue studies in a medical field. “I set it up so that when my grandchildren have children, that money will still be given out in my wife’s name,” he said.

Cowell Gratitude Grant-Making Fund

The Cowell Gratitude Grant-Making Fund was created in 2019 by Ed and Carol Cowell, who retired to the Outer Banks in 2002. The fund will award grants on an annual, competitive basis by the Board of the Community Foundation, based on applications from nonprofits. Grants will be awarded to a host of organizations serving the Outer Banks, with a special focus on educational, health, and human service related projects, based on the urgency of need.

A Grateful Couple Enriches the Outer Banks' Future

Bob's and Cheryl's adult lives started out the same way many do—they each met someone, fell in love, got married, started families. But, as so often happens, life pitched them some curveballs.

A few years passed, and they each found themselves divorced, raising kids as single parents, and knuckling down to make ends meet. The clouds were gathering over these hard workers, but it's always darkest before the dawn.

Cheryl's babysitter and Bob's best friend knew one another and brought the two together. Some silver linings were about to emerge, to their everlasting gratitude.

"Cheryl saved my life," admitted Bob. "I had help from my parents, and from my best friend's wife; boy did I need it, with four young children to raise," he recalled. "Early on, I worked third shift, so I often was only able to grab a few hours of sleep, lying on the living room floor while the kids watched cartoons."

"I decided that if I was ever interested in anyone again, he would have to be a good, Christian man," recalled Cheryl with a chuckle. "Luckily for me, that's what he was!" In fact, Bob volunteered at the local Lutheran pre-school.

Cheryl calls Bob her soul-mate. "Between the two of us, we make one really great, complete person," she laughed. They fell deeply in love, married, and combined their families. "With five children and two adults in the house, we had a person to do chores for every day of the week."

The Fords continued working - Cheryl as a computer programmer, and Bob as a contractor. He would rehab older homes, and subcontract some of the trades work. "I have great appreciation for the tradesmen and blue-collar workers," he said. "They provide important, vital services."

"When we were growing up, high schools all had vocational tech programs; then they all went away," Cheryl added. "We saw a need."

Bob recalls seeing other needs, too. "When I was in the trades, I saw guys who were just hanging on."

Those realizations would make lasting impressions, as it turned out, for this compassionate couple.

The Fords ultimately retired and relocated the Outer Banks - first to Corolla, and later to Manteo. Their gratitude, and their passion to give back, soon had them volunteering regularly with Food for Thought, and eventually considering a legacy gift to benefit their new community.

When it came to creating a plan for future giving, the Fords proceeded thoughtfully. "We mulled it over," said Bob. "We did our research, and we became familiar with what the Community Foundation does. We saw all the great groups the Community Foundation supports."

Bob and Cheryl met with Community Foundation staff and created the Vocational Opportunity Scholarship Fund, so that students enrolling in trade or technical school could be financially supported, for generations into the future.

"We went through some tough times when we were growing up," said Bob, "but we were ambitious enough to think we could do better. We've done well, and we know so many aren't doing well, so we're doing what we can to pay it forward."

Bob and Cheryl also made provisions in their wills to create a second scholarship fund, the Academic Achievement Fund. This testamentary fund will ultimately award scholarships to students from northeastern North Carolina, with preference given to students with financial need who demonstrate a positive work ethic and history.

Also known as a bequest, a donor can use his or her legacy gift to create a new fund to benefit the Outer Banks, following whatever charitable interest the donor names. Or, a legacy gift may be directed toward any of the 190 existing funds the Community Foundation manages, including the Community Fund, the Community Foundation's largest and broadest grant-making fund.

Bequests and planned gifts, invested as endowments, have been sustaining the Outer Banks since the Community Foundation began in 1982. Those legacy gifts provide the continuous, reliable funding that supports the Community Foundation's annual grants and scholarships, even when other sources of funding dry up.

"As we learned to get ahead - and not just materially - our thoughts turned to charity and how we could help others," said Bob. "We discussed how we wanted to give to a cause or causes that would make us feel good, that were near and dear to us. And we knew we wanted to invest in people, so we can all succeed."

The entire Outer Banks community is enriched by people like Bob and Cheryl Ford, with their grace, gratitude, and generosity.

"Living in Dare County has been a source of joy for us," said Cheryl. "We're lucky - we love being here, and we've made good friends. The community is open-hearted and very generous. We've never seen anything like that in our lives, but this is the way it should be."

"We've done well, and we know so many aren't doing well, so we're doing what we can to pay it forward."

For the community of Avon, weekly suppers at St. John United Methodist Church are a chance to care for the hungry, and to come together in companionship and support during the long and isolating off-season. Disaster relief intake table and volunteers, Ocracoke Fire Station, early September. While Hurricane Dorian wreaked havoc upon hundreds of homes and businesses across the Outer Banks, many nonprofits were gravely affected. Recognizing this, the Community Foundation created a Rapid Response Grants Program to assist nonprofits leading disaster relief efforts, and to nonprofits that were devastated by the storm. The funding for these special grants were from dozens of legacy gifts and donor-advised funds, and were in addition to new money raised for Ocracoke and Hatteras disaster victims. Quotes From Ocracoke Donors:

"Ocracoke is our sanctuary, our home away from home. It rejuvenates our souls and promotes our well-being, each and every year."

"The sun always rises, even after the darkest of nights."

"We love you Ocracoke,
your beaches,
your community, and most importantly, the people,
our extended family."

“No One Pulls Together Like We Do...”

Christine O'Neal is an Ocracoke native with a friendly, lilting voice and a thick island brogue. She called our office one day to tell us her Dorian story, and to thank our donors for helping her family after the storm.

Hurricane Dorian struck the Outer Banks on September 6, 2019, and it's a day that Christine may never forget. The winds of the storm were not the main problem; it was the flooding that wreaked the most havoc.

Christine's home, a double-wide trailer on her family's land, was inundated by water. “I was up to my kneecaps,” recalled Christine.

“After the waters receded, the smell was just awful. And then all of a sudden, everything—absolutely everything—was covered in black mold. It was worse than your worst nightmare,” she said. “It was real hard, I tell you. Everything was ruined, and we've had to start all over, from scratch.”

Christine and her husband, Ben, are older, and they live with health issues and limited mobility. But they are now in an apartment over her cousin's garage in Ocracoke Village. “We're very thankful to have it,” she said.

Christine's story is not unique. Ocracoke native Phillip Howard chronicled the destruction:

“People had to be rescued from attics and roofs where they had fled from the rising tide, and numerous businesses and public buildings, including the Methodist church, the school, the health clinic, the post office, and the Variety Store, had extensive damage. Some people lost everything to the rising water.”

“The worst flooding that most of us could remember was in Matthew, and Dorian was two or three feet worse than that,” said Earl Pugh, Chair of the Hyde County Board of Commissioners. “A lot of the older homes that were built right on the ground, they had two, three feet of water in them. Most all of the businesses, even out on Highway 12, had water in them.”

Accustomed to hurricanes, the Outer Banks Community Foundation already had a Disaster Relief Fund for Dare County when Dorian struck, thanks to some visionary donors, including the late Sterling Webster III. The Dare County Disaster Relief Fund had been used many times over decades, helping residents after Hurricanes Matthew, Isabel, Irene, Sandy, Arthur, Hermine, and Michael, among others.

With Dorian, however, it was clear that substantial damage went beyond Dare County. Even before the floodwaters receded, the Community Foundation began getting reports of the devastation on Ocracoke. Board members, staff, and volunteers immediately sprang into action, creating a Disaster Relief Fund for Ocracoke just hours after the storm's landfall.

Community leaders also lost no time in responding. “The storm hit on a Friday; we opened the fund the same day,” recalled Community Foundation Executive Director Lorelei Costa. “On Saturday morning, I got a call from Taylor Sugg at TowneBank. TowneBank, without us having to ask, then contributed the largest ever donation received for any Outer Banks disaster: $150,000.” The campaign to help Dorian victims had officially begun.

People from near and far saw on social media the hardships being experienced. The black mold, the flooded homes and cars, the lack of clean water and electricity, and the wrecked infrastructure created an immediate and extensive catastrophe, especially in the small village of Ocracoke. With limited access to the mainland, Ocracoke's elderly and frail residents were at particular risk, prompting medical evacuations and a scramble for generators.

And people near and far started giving. TowneBank's extraordinary grant set a pace that was unmatched by anything in Community Foundation history. By 6 am on Monday, less than three days after Dorian landed, more than $350,000 in disaster relief donations had been raised for Ocracoke and Dare County.

Local nonprofits and volunteers got on skiffs and boats, or navigated five-hour, one-way trips to the Ocracoke by back roads and ferries, bringing everything from medicine and building materials, to truckloads of fresh vegetables and tons of gloves and bleach to struggling islanders. An island recovery team quickly came together to lead the enormous efforts of assessing, salvaging, restoring, and funneling resources to areas of greatest needs. The Really, Really Free Market opened at the Frisco Volunteer Fire Station on Hatteras, and the Hatteras Island Community Emergency Response Team was activated. This was the difficult work that unfolded, as the days turned into weeks, and the weeks turned into months.

There were T-shirt sales, jewelry sales, Facebook fundraisers, lemonade stands, dine-arounds, camp outs, art sales, concerts, and much, much more. The response was overwhelming. In less than a month, $1 million had been given. In total, more than 6,000 donors contributed $1.5 million to the Community Foundation to aid in recovery efforts. Most of these donors live outside the Outer Banks, and simply wanted to give to a beloved place where they have vacationed or lived in the past.

NC State Representative Bobby Hanig said, "What amazes me: when things happen on the Outer Banks, no one pulls together like we do. We take no time whatsoever to pitch in and help someone out. The outpouring of relief and the folks who want to come out and help is just remarkable."

Fortunately, the Community Foundation was able to serve as a conduit for a compassionate universe of donors, providing critical financial support. The Community Foundation worked closely with Interfaith Community Outreach and the Ocracoke Fire Department to ensure that donations were given to families with the greatest needs. In partnership with those groups, more than $890,000 of Disaster Relief donations have been disbursed across the Outer Banks in helping families rebuild, repair, and replace lost belongings, and pay bills in the face of lost income.

The work still continues, as families are still repairing and rebuilding their homes. The Community Foundation has allocated another $700,000 for elevating homes, and repairing and rebuilding houses in Ocracoke and Hatteras, in partnership with Cape Hatteras United Methodist Men, Hyde County, and United Methodist Committee on Relief. Volunteers are leading these home repair projects, which often take months until completion. "The Disaster Relief Fund is in it for the long haul. We are committed to helping local residents with their long-term recovery needs," assured Lorelei.

Christine and Ben are beyond grateful for the help that got them out of their flooded home and into a furnished apartment. They eagerly await the day when they will get to move into their new mobile home. Donations, large and small, into the Community Foundation's Disaster Relief Fund have played a significant part in helping Ocracoke residents like Ben and Christine recover. "We've been blessed by people from the outside; they took a genuine interest in our well-being," Christine said.

They see their village coming back, slowly, but surely. It has not been an easy journey. But hardy residents are determined to keep their island way of life, and their livelihoods, intact.

"Please tell the people how much their support means to us," Christine implored. We promised her we would.

Ocracoke, September, 2019. The Community Foundation raised more than $1.5 million to aid individuals impacted by the devastation left after Hurricane Dorian in Dare County and Ocracoke. Here, community leaders meet and plan for best use of funds and how to support disaster recovery on Ocracoke Island. (Photo by Robert Muller.)

"I feel for the older ones who've lost everything," she said, sadly. "They want to go home, and there is no home for them to go home to."

The Monarch Beach Club of Dare, an organization supporting adults with intellectual and developmental disabilities, received a 2019 Special Focus Grant of $3,500 to furnish the Club's new meeting room in Manteo. The funds for this grant were bequeathed by the late Pauline Wright, who left the Community Foundation in her will and asked us to use her gift to help people with Down syndrome and other disabilities. Grant Spotlight ▲ Listen hard, and you can hear voices from the past in lovely Nags Head Woods—and that’s not just a romantic statement. Now, through your smart phone, thanks to the Nature Conservancy and a Community Foundation grant, you really can hear the voices and stories of the hardy inhabitants who lived here during a much simpler time. A new audio tour called “The Land Speaks: Stories of Nags Head Woods” features oral histories recorded in the 1980s by those who dwelled in Nags Head Woods at the turn of the 20th century. To learn more, visit www.nature.org, or just head to the woods.

For some, domestic violence is a painful topic that few people wish to discuss. But Outer Banks Hotline has been tackling this perennial problem since 1980, working to shape a strong and caring community where everyone can feel and be safe. Their compassionate and empowering programs include a safe house, advocacy, support, and referral for victims and their children. And now, thanks to a grant from the Community Foundation, Hotline has expanded its mission to support victims of human trafficking and runaway teens. The two-year grant of $50,000 has allowed Hotline to expand their shelter by four more rooms to help even more people in our community.

▲ Dare County firefighters have new tools to help them in their life-saving work, thanks to the generous donors of the Outer Banks Community Foundation. “Operation Fresh Air for Pets,” a Coastal Humane Society program, provides local fire departments with special gear for pets suffering from smoke inhalation. A Community Foundation grant supported the Coastal Humane Society’s initiative in 2019; now, leading-edge resuscitation equipment for dogs and cats is available at all fourteen Dare County fire departments. (Photo courtesy of Coastal Humane Society.)

2019 Book of Memory

In addition to the specific individuals, families, and businesses listed below, we gratefully received hundreds of donations in 2019 in honor of the people and communities of Ocracoke, Hatteras, and the Outer Banks, and in honor of the volunteers and first responders who helped our community after Hurricane Dorian. We thank all of our donors who made gifts in memory of someone special.

Helping nonprofit personnel gain leadership skills, and providing learning opportunities to aid their vital work, is at the heart of our Community Foundation's nonprofit workshops. In 2019, the Community Foundation brought instructor Jeanne Allen (pictured, center) to teach a strategic planning seminar to help nonprofit leaders be even more tactical and sustainable in their efforts. The Community Foundation underwrites these workshops so the greatest number of groups can benefit. (Photo by Biff Jennings, Shooters at the Beach.)

Don and Catharine's

LEGACY

Will Forever Support the Arts on the Outer Banks

Don and Catharine Bryan were passionate about the arts. They had a vision of inspiring, educating, and challenging our community through exceptional presentations of visual, literary, and performing arts. To realize this vision, they left gifts in their wills to the Outer Banks Community Foundation.

Although they passed away in 2013, Don and Catharine's legacy will live on forever. Their gift will help educate and inspire students and adults through the Don and Catharine Bryan Cultural Series for generations to come.

MAKE YOUR MARK.

You, too, can leave a legacy for the Outer Banks with a charitable bequest to the Community Foundation.
